

REPORT

1) outputs are printed.

2) Here the DCT is similar to original as if it has been made by dots.

3) Right side is original and left side is reconstructed image

Due to compression there is a slight difference between them.

4)

First graph shows how RMSE value increases as compression factor increases.

Second graph shows how entropy increases as compression factor increases.

